SUCCULENT GARDEN

This cheerful, easy-to-grow succulent gift contains sedum and sempervivum – generous bearers of good luck, according to Irish, Roman and Scandinavian folklore. Just follow these simple instructions to keep the plants healthy for years to come. And, enjoy your living gift with the warm wishes of the thoughtful person whose name appears on the outer address label.

PLACEMENT

Your new succulent garden is well-suited for growing either in the house or outside. Indoors, place it near a sunny window or light source. Outdoors, your garden will do well in a spot with full sun – as long as the temperature does not exceed 85°F. In warmer climates, choose an area that receives either filtered sun or afternoon shade. Be sure to keep the planter on a protected surface to prevent water damage to furniture.

WATER AND FERTILIZER

Allow the soil to become nearly dry between waterings, then water thoroughly. Fertilize during spring and fall with a 5-10-10 or similar fertilizer, according to the product label instructions.
